release

INDRA AND RADIXX INTERNATIONAL WILL COLLABORATE IN OFFERING RESERVATION AND TRAVEL DISTRIBUTION SYSTEMS AND SERVICES TO AIRLINES THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

- The alliance consists of commercialising the Radixx travel reservations solution (PSS: Passenger Services System) with Indra's airline consultancy and IT development services
- The PSS solution easily integrates with different airline business models and it is currently implemented at more than 40 companies in a number of countries

Indra, the leading technology multinational in Spain and a leader in Europe and Latin America, and Radixx International, Inc. (Orlando, Florida), have signed an alliance to offer next-generation solutions and services for passenger reservations to airlines throughout the world. Radixx has been managing regional Low Cost, hybrid and traditional airlines using its robust Radixx Air Enterprise PSS reservations system for 20 years.

This expertise, combined with Indra's IT development and consultancy services, as well as its revenue accounting, CRM, e-commerce and Business Analytics (BA) solutions, consolidates an innovative and specialised offering aimed at airlines anywhere in the world. The IT multinational will provide support and personalise the software for customers, establishing in Spain a centre of excellence for providing this type of highly specialised services. The Indra/Radixx solution is available as of today.

Radixx currently provides its PSS to more than 40 airlines throughout the world operating in the six continents. In addition, its innovative and differentiated product is specially designed to increase flexibility in the sale and distribution of Interline and code sharing flights, complying with existing IATA standards and easily adopting the future models resulting from the strategic IATA-NDC (New Distribution Capabilities) initiative, in which Indra is also participating as a strategic partner of IATA. This system is built on an Oracle® database environment, which allows a high degree of scalability. Since January 2012, Radixx has added more than 20 new airlines.
